HALE'S LATIN PROSE COMPOSITION

By WILLIAM GARDNER HALE, Head of the Latin Department, University of Chicago.

Cloth, 50 cents.

The book plans as much material only as can be written in one year; this is assumed to be one lesson a week. The entire ground may therefore be covered without leaving gaps in the pupil's study of constructions. The work is confined to those constructions which are common in Caesar. The sentences are not longer than those in other books, but they follow the narrative, are continuous, and are sensible.

The book contains a vocabulary, and most helpfully arranged tables of case-uses and mood-uses. References are given to all the grammars in common use.

D'OOGUE'S LATIN FOR BEGINNERS $1.00

A remarkable book with a remarkable record of instant recognition.

Constructions are presented from the standpoint of English as far as possible.

The arrangement of material is logical, and fitted to the student's natural capacity.

In the vocabularies are given where possible English derivatives of the Latin word. They have proved a great help.

There are abundant exercises for translation.

There is a carefully selected and well-balanced vocabulary.

A very large percentage of these occurring five or more times in Caesar.

Never before in a Latin textbook have there been such illustrations.
